SPANISH MAKE PREPARATIONS.

Reported to Have Taken Extraordinary Precautions to Guard the Entrance to the Harbor-A Dispatch From There Received at Cape Haitian Declares the Rumored Bombardment Occurred-The Auxiliary Cruiser St. Paul Said to Have Been Somewhat Damaged - Spanish Vessel Was In the Entrance, but Retired-Some Spaniards Believed to Have Been Killed During the Fight.

CAPE HAITIEN, June 2.- A special from Santiago, confirming the bombardment, says great events are expected hourly there. American warships are in front of the harbor. Insurgents are gathering on the hills. The Spanish have taken extraordinary precautions to guard the harbor entrance.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A special from Cape Haitien says:
The torpedoboat Porter arrived at

Mole St. Nicolas at 1 o'clock yesterday morning with dispatches for Washington. She left immediately. But before going to sea the following story of the bombardment of Santiago de Cuba, the refuge of Cervera and the Spanish fleet, was obtained:

The American squadron, augmented by the torpedoboat Porter, the auxiliary cruiser St. Paul and the protected cruiser New Orleans, approached the entrance to the harbor of Santiago at about 12:30 p. m., the Iowa leading.

Inside the entrance to the harbor was seen one of the warships of Cervera's fleet, stripped for action.

As the American fleet drew near the New Orleans was detached and steamed forward ahead of the Iowa, Texas and Massachusetts. One of the forts opened fire on her and she replied, the other two ships directing their fire at the battery on the Punta Gorda, within the harbor and to westward of the position occupied by the Spanish ship. The latter replied to the fire and immediately became a target for all the American ships engaged in the battle.

She retired behind a protecting head land and was not seen again during the engagement. The Iowa, the Massachusetts, the Texas and the New Orleans, kept up their terrific fire against the Morro, Socapa and Punta Gorda forts for two hours their projectiles of enormous size, doing tremendous damage to the defenses of the harbor. The masonry on Socapa and Morro was battered almost into dust and the forms of Spanish artillerymen and infantry could be plainly seen flying to safety behind the neighboring hills.

The auxiliary cruiser was hit by shells from the forts, and it is thought she was seriously damaged.

After seeking the protection of a jutting headland the Spanish warships continued to fire projectiles over the hills toward the fleet, but they had no range, not even direction, to take their shots, and the shells fell harmlessly into the sea.

wounded on the Spanish side is enormous no one doubts, for time and again the American shells hit the batteries squarely and, amid the flying masonry and dismantled guns, the forms of men were descried.

The damage done to the American fleet cannot be learned, but it is not thought any person was killed—if, indeed, anyone was wounded.

SPAIN'S DILEMMA.

A Financial Stringency Reported There. Castelar May Be Prosecuted.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The statement from Madrid, in what seemed almost semi-official form, of the acuteness of the financial stringency there, and the plain intimation that the Bank of Spain, and consequently Spain, were nearing the end of their financial resources, was regarded at the state de. partment as of more real significance than many of the stories of battles on land and sea that have been coming over the cables for the past few weeks.

MADRID, June 2.—Emilio Castelar is threatened with prosecution for a vio-That the number of killed and lent article attacking the queen regent. The article is believed to indicate his aspirations as possible president of a Spanish republic.

ABOUT 200 SOLDIERS SICK.

Where to Send Relief-Fred Grant Sworn In as Brigadier General.

CHICKAMAUGA PARK, Ga., June 2 .-There are probably 200 soldiers of the various regiments who are sick at division hospitals, in view of which the Chattanooga branch of the national relief committee have authorized the statement that they are now ready to receive any contributions that may be sent from the various states for the relief and sustenance of the sick. Supplies may be sent to Dr. W. J. Trimble. president of the branch, or to George W. Ochs, ex-mayor of the city, secretary, who will see that everything reaches its proper destination.

General Fred Grant yesterday took the oath as brigadier general and the ceremony was one of intense interest. The oath was administered by Judge George A. H. MADE MARKED PROGRESS.

totes Taken on the Gorman Amendment to Revenue Bill In the Senate.

Washington, June 2 .- Marked progress was made by the senate toward the final disposition of the war revenue measure yesterday. The committee amendments on nearly 60 pages of the bill were passed upon and the senate nearly reached the principal questions at issue between the contending parties.

The interest of the session centered in the action taken upon the amendment of Mr. Gorman (Dem., Md.). Levying a tax of one quarter of 1 per cent upon the gross receipts of all corporations doing a business exceeding $250,000 a year. By a direct vote upon it the amendment was rejected—27 to 34. Mr. Pettigrew (Pop., S. D.) offered the Gorman amendment with the clause containing the $250,000 exemption stricken out, but it was defeated by a vote of 25 to 37.

Mr. White (Dem., Cal.) then proposed the Gorman amendment so modified that it levies a tax of one quarter of 1 per cent upon all corporations engaged in the refining of sugar or pe troleum. The California senator explained that he desired to see a tax levied on the American Sugar trust and the Standard Oil company. The amendment prevailed by a vote of 33

It was supported by 22 Democrats, 4 Republicans, 5 Populists and 2 Silver Republicans and opposed by 24 Republicans and 2 Democrats. Speeches were made by Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.), Hoar (Rep., Mass.) and Mr. Bate (Dem., Tenn.). Mr. Chandler devoted almost his entire time to a discussion of the financial question, advocating the issue of bonds and the coinage of the silver seigniorage and opposing the issue of legal tender notes. Mr. Hoar attacked some of the statements made by Mr. Chandler. Mr. Bate general provisions of the bill from a Democratic standpoint.

A REUNITED COUNTRY.

Grosvenor and Settle Made Notable Speeches on This Theme In the House.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The session of the house yesterday was given to the consideration and passage of a bill called up by Mr. Jenkins (Rep., Wis.) to remove all political disabilities incurred by the third section of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution. The debate gave rise to notable speeches from Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) and Mr. Settle (Dem., Ky.) upon the obliteration of all sectional feeling and the reality at last of a reunited country. Incidental to the debate several members reviewed the conclusion that a member of congress could not hold simultaneous a military and a civil

The debate was brought on by a reference to General Joe Wheeler, now serving as a major general, and until recently a member of the house. This position was taken by Bailey and Grosvenor. The statements that some states were unable to respond to the demands for volunteers, called forth incidentally, explanations and an alleged interview with Mr. Overstreet (Rep., Ind.) upon the subject reflecting upon the loyaly of certain states was condemned by several members, but the discussion was declared out of order. The passage of the bill considered by the house will affect but few parties, since the general acts passed in President Grant's administration and many special relief bills have removed all disabilities with the exception of those in a few hundred

PLANS FOR WAR.

Apparently Revealed In a Communication From Alger.

WILL INVADE PORTO RICO.

Seventy Thousand Men Are to Be Sent to Cuba.

LETTER SENT TO SPRAKER REED.

It Transmitted Certain Recommenda tions and Statements of General Ludlow, Which Disclosed the Purpose to Send Troops to Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines - Twenty Thousand Troops Sent at Once to Cubs and the Remainder to Follow as Soon as They Can Be Made Ready For the Departure, Is the Present Intention - Disposition of Second Call Volunteers.

WASHINGTON, June 2 .- For the first time since the beginning of hostilities there appears to be something in the nature of an official statement of the plan of campaign of the United States government. This is contained in a letter of Secretary Alger to the speaker of the house transmitting certain recommendation and statements of General Ludlow which disclosed the purpose of the war department to send 70,-000 men to Cuba, 20,000 to start at once and the remainder just as soon as they can be made ready for departure. Then there was an estimate for establishing electrical communications in connection with the army "in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines," showing for the first time officially an implied intention on the part of the government to land tracers in Porto Pierro. ernment to land troops in Porto Rico been anticipated by the press, but nevertheless a strong element of doubt existed and therefore an official statement of the government's purpose made even in this direct fashion, created a profound sensation here. The three are to go together, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and pass into the military occupation of the United States troops. Inasmuch as the secretary says that the second contingent of troops is to go forward as soon as they can be tached to an order that was made yesterday at the war department, providing for the organization of the 75,000 additional volunteers called for. The order officially established the statement heretofore made in these dispatches that a large proportion of the new men are to be used to fill up the existing regiments of volunteers, which are in most cases deficient in numbers. It is to be presumed that the volunteer regiments collected under the first call will be detained until they are filled up in this fashion, so that the order has some bearing upon the plan of campaign.

EXCESS OF VOLUNTEERS.

Columbus, June 2 .- Adjutant General Corbin the other day answered General Axline's query what to do with the excess of 556 men over the quota which would be needed to fully man the existing regiments. General Corbin solved the question by deciding to leave at home five of the nine guard companies which were mustered in last

The Third and Fifth are in Tampa now, and the First started there from Chickamauga, so it cannot be said which of the three the war department wishes made full 12-company regiments first.

JOHN J. SHIPHERD DEAD.

His Health Began to Fail Soon After Criminal Action Against Him.

CLEVELAND, June 2 .- John J. Shipherd, the banker and broker, died last night, aged 58 years. Shipherd was recently the defendant in sensational suits begun by Frank de Hass Robison, in which it was charged that street railway bonds and other securities worth several hundred thousand dollars had been hypothecated by Shipherd. Shipherd's health began to fail soon after his arrest on a criminal charge, but he has been able to visit his offices daily until within a week.

Reported to Have Taken Extraordinary Precautions to Guard the Entrance to the Harbor-A Dispatch From There Received at Cape Haitian Declares the Rumored Bombardment Occurred-The Auxiliary Cruiser St. Paul Said to Have Been Somewhat Damaged - Spanish Vessel Was In the Entrance, but Retired-Some Spaniards Believed to Have Been Killed During the Fight.

CAPE HAITIEN, June 2 .- A special from Santiago, confirming the bombardment, says great events are expected hourly there. American warships are in front of the harbor. Insurgents are gathering on the hills. The Spanish have taken extraordinary precautions to guard the harbor entrance.

NEW YORK, June 2 .- A special from Cape Haitien says:

The torpedoboat Porter arrived at Mole St. Nicolas at 1 o'clock yesterday morning with dispatches for Washington. She left immediately. But be-fore going to sea the following story of the bombardment of Santiago de Cuba, the refuge of Cervera and the Spanish fleet, was obtained:

The American squadron, augmented by the torpedoboat Porter, the auxiliary cruiser St. Paul and the protected entrance to the harbor of Santiago at about 12:30 p. m., the Iowa leading.

Inside the entrance to the harbor was seen one of the warships of Cervera's fleet, stripped for action.

As the American fleet drew near the New Orleans was detached and steamed forward ahead of the Iowa, Texas and Massachusetts. One of the forts opened fire on her and she replied, the other two ships directing their fire at the batoccupied by the Spanish ship. The latter replied to the fire and immediately became a target for all the American ships engaged in the battle.

She retired behind a protecting head land and was not seen again during the engagement.

The Iowa, the Massachusetts, the Texas and the New Orleans, kept up their terrific fire against the Morro, Socapa and Punta Gorda forts for two hours their projectiles of enormous size. doing tremendous damage to the defenses of the harbor.

The masonry on Socapa and Morro was battered almost into dust and the forms of Spanish artillerymen and infantry could be plainly seen flying to safety behind the neighboring hills.

The auxiliary cruiser was hit by shells from the forts, and it is thought she was seriously damaged.

After seeking the protection of a jutting headland the Spanish warships continued to fire projectiles over the hills toward the fleet, but they had no range, not even direction, to take their shots, and the shells fell harmlessly into the sea.

That the number of killed and wounded on the Spanish side is enormous no one doubts, for time and again the American shells hit the batteries squarely and, amid the flying masonry and dismantled guns, the forms of men were descried.

The damage done to the American fleet cannot be learned, but it is not thought any person was killed-if, indeed, anyone was wounded.

MADE MARKED PROGRESS.

totes Taken on the Gorman Amendment to Revenue Bill In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 2 .- Marked progress was made by the senate toward the final disposition of the war revenumeasure yesterday. The committee amendments on nearly 60 pages of the bill were passed upon and the senate nearly reached the principal questions at issue between the contending parties.

The interest of the session centered in the action taken upon the amendment of Mr. Gorman (Dem., Md.). Levying a tax of one quarter of 1 per cent upon the gross receipts of all corporations doing a business exceeding $250,000 a year. By a direct vote upon it the amendment was rejected-27 to 34.

Mr. Pettigrew (Pop., S. D.) offered the Gorman amendment with the clause containing the $250,000 exemption stricken out, but it was defeated by a vote of 25 to 37.

Mr. White (Dem., Cal.) then proposed the Gorman amendment so modified that it levies a tax of one quarter of 1 per cent upon all corporations engaged in the refining of sugar or pe troleum. The California senator explained that he desired to see a tax levied on the American Sugar trust and the Standard Oil company. The amendment prevailed by a vote of 33

It was supported by 22 Democrats, 4 Republicans, 5 Populists and 2 Silver Republicans and opposed by 24 Republicans and 2 Democrats. Speeches were made by Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.), Hoar (Rep., Mass.) and Mr. Bate (Dem., Tenn.). Mr. Chandler devoted almost his entire time to a discussion of the financial question, advocating the issue of bonds and the coinage of the silver seigniorage and opposing the issue of legal tender notes. Mr. Hoar attacked some of the statements made by Mr. Chandler. Mr. Bate dealt with the general provisions of the bill from a Democratic standpoint.

A REUNITED COUNTRY.

Grosvenor and Settle Made Notable Speeches on This Theme In the House.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The session of the house yesterday was given to the consideration and passage of a bill called up by Mr. Jenkins (Rep., Wis.) to remove all political disabilities incurred by the third section of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution. The debate gave rise to notable speeches from Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) and Mr. Settle (Dem., Ky.) upon the obliteration of all sectional feeling and the reality at last of a reunited country. Incidental to the debate several members reviewed the conclusion that a member of congress could not hold simultaneous a military and a civil

The statements that some states were unable to respond to the demands for volunteers, called forth incidentally, explanations and an alleged interview with Mr. Overstreet (Rep., Ind.) upon the subject reflecting upon the loyaly of certain states was condemned by several members, but the discussion was declared out of order. The passage of the bill considered by the house will affect but few parties, since the general acts passed in President Grant's administration and many special relief bills have removed all disabilities with the exception of those in a few hundred

PLANS FOR WAR.

Apparently Revealed In a Communication From Alger.

WILL INVADE PORTO RICO.

Seventy Thousand Men Are to Be Sent to Cuba.

LETTER SENT TO SPRAKER REED.

It Transmitted Certain Recommenda tions and Statements of General Ludlow, Which Disclosed the Purpose to Send Troops to Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines - Twenty Thousand Troops Sent at Once to Cubs and the Remainder to Follow as Soon at They Can Be Made Ready For the Departure, Is the Present Intention - Disposition of Second Call Volunteers.

WASHINGTON, June 2 .- For the first time since the beginning of hostilities there appears to be something in the nature of an official statement of the plan of campaign of the United States government. This is contained in a letter of Secretary Alger to the speaker of the house transmitting certain recommendation and statements of General Ludlow which disclosed the purpose of the war department to send 70,-000 men to Cuba, 20,000 to start at once and the remainder just as soon as they can be made ready for departure. Then there was an estimate for establishing electrical communications in connection with the army "in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines," showing for the first time officially an implied intention on the part of the government to land troops in Porto Rico

Of course all these movements nave been anticipated by the press, but nevertheless a strong element of doubt existed and therefore an official statement of the government's purpose made even in this direct fashion, created a profound sensation here. The three are to go together, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and pass into the military occupation of the United States troops. Inasmuch as the secretary says that the second contingent of troops is to go forward as soon as they can be prepared, a good deal of interest atterday at the war department, providing for the organization of the 75,000 additional volunteers called for. The order officially established the statement heretofore made in these dispatches that a large proportion of the new men are to be used to fill up the existing regiments of volunteers, which are in most cases deficient in numbers. It is to be presumed that the volunteer regiments collected under the first call will be detained until they are filled up in this fashion, so that the order has some bearing upon the plan of campaign.

EXCESS OF VOLUNTEERS.

Columbus, June 2.-Adjutant General Corbin the other day answered General Axline's query what to do with the excess of 556 men over the quota which would be needed to fully man the existing regiments. General Corbin solved the question by deciding to leave at home five of the nine guard companies which were mustered in last

The Third and Fifth are in Tampa now, and the First started there from Chickamauga, so it cannot be said which of the three the war department wishes made full 12-company regiments first.

BOYCOTT FRENCH WARE

Dealers Do Not Like to Buy Big Stocks

SINCE THE WAR COMMENCED

They Realize That People Are Opposed to France Because of Its Abuse of America, and Fear to Invest a Great Deal of Money.

It is doubtful if the manufacturing potters of East Liverpool believed the boycott of French goods would have any influence on their business, but traveling men find that it has already commenced to do its work.

It will be remembered that a great many people in this country became indignant when France began to sympathize with Spain, and said so many hard things of this country. A number of newspapers became interested and the crusade was carried on with a vim. Ladies in all parts of the country decided they would refuse to patronize Paris merchants, and parties in business took up the cry, They, too, got after the agents of French concerns in this ing from the city after disposing of country, and thousands upon thousands of dollars in orders for French products were countermanded. Crockery dealers were slow to recognize the real condition of affairs, but they have at last taken a hand in the matter, and their influence is being felt.

The News Review is informed by a well known crockery salesman now in the east, that dealers in the east are cancelling orders for pottery made in France. The amount is large enough to make the importers feel sore, but they cannot help it. One large concern in an eastern city is said to have cancelled all the orders placed for the year. They must place orders, and it naturally follows that they must buy American ware. The traveler in question says he has talked with a number of dealers, and they say they will not spend a dollar for French ware if the attitude of of the Paris press continues as it is at present. They do not like being called all the names on the calendar by the people whom they provide with bread and butter.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

IT PROVED THE DOWNFALL OF NEG-LEY AND HIS PALS.

A Thrilling Incident of Life In the City of Pittsburg Early In the Present Century, Related by a Woman-Pregince of Mind Alone Saved Her.

The following incident, which, at the time, caused much talk, and is still told by the children of old settlers who heard it from their parents, has never, to my knowledge, appeared in print, and the only object in telling it now is that so many people are interested in anything of an historical nature pertaining to the days of our grandfathers.

My ancestors were among the first settlers of western Pennsylvania, my grandfather being one of the garrison of old Fort Pitt, dying there during the Revolutionary war. The incident referred to was told me by my mother, who was attending a school in Pittsburg at the time, and my grandmother Culberson, who was a resident of the city for many years and who died there in 1864 at the age of 89 years.

About the first of this century a man named Negley built a house five miles east of Pittsburg on a road running east and west, midway between the Alleghany and Monongahela rivers. It was a tavern and farmhouse combined. Teamsters, drovers and travelers stopped on their way to and from the city to get a meal or stay overnight.

These wayside inns were numerous in early days, and are still found in many parts of the country. They are generally pleasant places to stop at. After Negley had occupied his tavern a number of years the place was named Negleyville, afterward Rising Sun and later East

Negley was as bloodthirsty a villain as could have been found on the frontier and had associated with him a number of men as bad as himself, who made his tavern their headquarters, and whose business was to rob and murder unfortunate travelers who might stop there. The undoing of these men was brought about in this way:

A poor woman with her two small children started afoot from some point east of Liberty to walk to Pittsburg. In the evening she reached Negley's tavern, and as her children were too tired to go farther she put up for the night. Soon after entering the house she began to feel uneasy, as there was something mysterious about the actions of the inmates. Before she retired to rest a traveler rode up and dismounted, and after seeing his horse cared for entered the house. He seemed to be a drover returnsome cattle.

Concealing her alarm, she followed the landlady, a coarse, brawny woman, to a room up stairs, whose door was without fastenings and which contained only a bed and stool. Retiring with her children, she was unable to sleep. An hour or so later she heard the traveler being escorted to an adjoining room and heard him complain that his door could not be secured, and the landlord assured him that he was as safe as he would be in his own house, an assertion the traveler evidently believed, as his heavy breathing soon told that he was asleep.

Near midnight the woman, who was still awake, heard stealthy steps pass her door and several persons enter the adjoining room. In a few minutes there was a heavy blow, followed by a low cry and then a short struggle. A little after the murderers came into her room, but seeing that she seemed to be asleep left her, and she heard them carry the dead man through the hall and down stairs.

In the morning they were very po lite, inquiring how she rested, etc., stating that the drover had got up early and gone on.

After breakfast she and the children started for the city, but were soon met by a man coming from there, who stopwhere she was going, where she had staid the night before, etc. Believing him to be one of the band, she answered truthfully, but told him that the people at the tavern were very nice people and had treated her very well. He passed on, but she met another coming from the city who made the same inquiries, and still another; but she told the same story, and they, believing that she knew nothing, let her go.

On her arrival at Pittsburg she informed the authorities and the place was broken up, but whether any of them were brought to justice I am unable to say.—Sarah P. Farmer in Pittsburg Dispatch.

DEWLY AND THE PRINCE.

He Compelled Henry of Prussia to Apologize In Person.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Charles N. Post, vice president of the Lyon & Healy company, who has just returned from an extended tour of the Orient, met Admiral Dewey in Hongkong, March 25. Mr. Post says that Prince Henry, brother of Emperor William, with the German squadron at Hongkong, immediately after his arrival at Hongkong gave a banquet to the high officers of the other fleets, among whom was Rear Admiral Dewey. At the feast the prince proposed a toast to his own country, then Great Britain, then to all the other great powers, except the United States. Finally, just before the dinner was over, the royal host proposed a toast to this country.

When Rear Admiral Dewey saw that apparently his country was to be slighted he left the banquet without ceremony. The next day a representative of Prince Henry sent a roundabout apology. Dewey would not accept it. The latter then called upon Dewey and apologized.

While Mr. Post was at Hongkong, Prince Henry gave a ball, but Admiral Dewey, although invited, did not attend it.

KEY WEST, June 2. - The United States auxiliary gunboat Uncas reported that on Monday last when about a mile and a half west of Matanzas lighthouse she sighted a Spanish blockhouse on shore. During the firing the auxiliary gunboat Leyden came up and fired a couple of shots. It is not known whether any Spaniards were killed, but they probably fled at the first shot. The blockhouse made no reply.

Patriotic Hancock.

During the siege of Boston General Washington consulted congress upon the propriety of bombarding the town of Boston. Mr. Hancock was then president of congress. After General Washington's letter was read a solemn silence ensued. This was broken by a member making a motion that the house should St. Louis........ 3 0 0 0 2 0 2 0-4 7 4 resolve itself into a committee of the whole in order that Mr. Hancock might give his opinion upon the important subject, as he was deeply interested from having all his estate in Boston. After he left the chair he addressed the chairman of the committee of the whole in the following words, "It is true, sir, ped her, inquiring who she was and nearly all the property I have in the world is in houses and other real estate in the town of Boston, but if the expulsion of the British army from it and the liberties of our country require their being burned to ashes issue the order for that purpose immediately."

Some Tough Old Nuts.

Not all centenarians have been paragons of all the virtues. Thomas Whittington, who lived to be 104, was a habitual drunkard, drinking only London gin, of which he consumed from a pint to 11/2 pints daily. Philip Laroque went to bed drunk at least two nights in the week until he was 100. At 92 he cut four new teeth. John de la Somet, 130 years old, was an inveterate smoker.

Several famous old people were extremely addicted to matrimony. Owen Duffy, who lived to be 122, married his third wife at 116, "by whom he had a son and a daughter." Francis Hongo, a Venetian, was five times married and was the father of 49 children. At the age of 100 his white hair fell out and a new crop of the original color came in. At the age of 112 he had two new teeth.

Italians and Chinamen Join the Display.

A gentleman who has attended several of the flag raisings and has observed the flags in many quarters of Boston says that the Italian quarter is as abundantly draped as any other, and that a flag raising he saw there was the most enthusiastic of all, except the one he saw in Chinatown, near the north end of Harrison avenue.

ETYMOLOGY OF "HURRAH."

Mr. Spratley Says That We Get It From Ancient Egypt.

W. J. Spratley, to use his plain English name, has favored us with a copy of a letter he has addressed to The Institute and Lecturers' Gazette on the etymology of the word "Hurrah!" which Mr. Spratley spells "Hoorah!" We have been vaguely cherishing the idea that it had a Russian origin, but proof. Mr. Spratley takes us to ancient Egypt in his etymological search. He thinks "there can be no doubt that the Egyptian soldiers went into battle to the inspiriting cheer of 'HooRa! HooRa! HooRa!' " and if the average questioning man asks why, he staggers him with this: "Because HooRa (in the tongue of the Thothmes and Rameses) means 'The king, the king, the king!' Yea, more. As 'Ra' means not only king, but also God and man, the concentrated meaning of the cry would be, 'For God, king and country!' What more loyal, what more patriotic, what more devout?" What,

But lest we should haply still doubt, Mr. Spratley clinches the matter by citing, in corroboration, the fact that his name, in Egypitian roots, is Sa-pa-Rata-y, or Sa-pa-Hoo-Ra-ta-y, which means "Son of heaven, king of the two hemispheres," and if the authority of a gentleman of this descent is not good enough for the mere doubter, even Mr. Sa-pa, etc., may well despair of convincing him. More than this, if Mr. Spratley's Egyptian name means anything-and this is an open question-it also signifies "King of lower Egypt and king of upper Egypt," or "Emperor of the World." But what we chiefly like it for is that it seems to settle another point that may well have baffled the philologist-namely, the genesis of the once familiar refrain "Ta-ra-raboom-de-ay." Is it possible that Miss Lottie Collins and the street urchin have been singing ancient Egyptian, as Mr. Jourdain spoke prose, without knowing it?—London Chronicle.

BOYCOTT FRENCH WARE

Dealers Do Not Like to Buy Big Stocks

SINCE THE WAR COMMENCED

They Realize That People Are Opposed to France Because of Its Abuse of America, and Fear to Invest a Great Deal of Money.

It is doubtful if the manufacturing potters of East Liverpool believed the boycott of French goods would have any influence on their business, but traveling men find that it has already commenced to do its work.

It will be remembered that a great many people in this country became indignant when France began to sympathize with Spain, and said so many hard things of this country. A number of newspapers became interested and the crusade was carried on with a vim. Ladies in all parts of the country decided they would refuse to patronize Paris merchants, and parties in business took up the cry, They, too, got after the agents of French concerns in this country, and thousands upon thousands of dollars in orders for French products were countermanded. Crockery dealers were slow to recognize the real contaken a hand in the matter, and their influence is being felt.

The News Review is informed by a well known crockery salesman now in the east, that dealers in the east are cancelling orders for pottery made in France. The amount is large enough to make the importers feel sore, but they cannot help it. One large concern in an eastern city is said to have cancelled all the orders placed for the year. They must place orders, and it naturally follows that they must buy American ware. The traveler in question says he has talked with a number of dealers, and they say they will not spend a dollar for French ware if the attitude of of the Paris press continues as it is at present. They do not like being called all the names on the calendar by the people whom they provide with bread and butter.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

IT PROVED THE DOWNFALL OF NEG-LEY AND HIS PALS.

A Thrilling Incident of Life In the City of Pittsburg Early In the Present Century, Related by a Woman-Pres ince of Mind Alone Saved Her.

The following incident, which, at the time, caused much talk, and is still told by the children of old settlers who heard it from their parents, has never, to my knowledge, appeared in print, and the only object in telling it now is that so many people are interested in anything of an historical nature pertaining to the days of our grandfathers.

My ancestors were among the first settlers of western Pennsylvania, my grandfather being one of the garrison of old Fort Pitt, dying there during the Revolutionary war. The incident referred to was told me by my mother, who was attending a school in Pittsburg at the time, and my grandmother Culberson, who was a resident of the city for many years and who died there in 1864 at the age of 89 years.

About the first of this century a man named Negley built a house five miles east of Pittsburg on a road running east and west, midway between the Alleghany and Monongahela rivers. It was a tavern and farmhouse combined. Teamsters, drovers and travelers stopped on their way to and from the city to get a meal or stay overnight.

These wayside inns were numerous in early days, and are still found in many parts of the country. They are generally pleasant places to stop at. After Negley had occupied his tavern a number of years the place was named Negleyville, afterward Rising Sun and later East

Negley was as bloodthirsty a villain as could have been found on the frontier and had associated with him a number of men as bad as himself, who made his tavern their headquarters, and whose business was to rob and murder unfortunate travelers who might stop there. The undoing of these men was brought about in this way:

A poor woman with her two small children started afoot from some point east of Liberty to walk to Pittsburg. In the evening she reached Negley's tavern, and as her children were too tired to go farther she put up for the night. Soon after entering the house she began to feel uneasy, as there was something mysterious about the actions of the inmates. Before she retired to rest a traveler rode up and dismounted, and after seeing his horse cared for entered the house. He seemed to be a drover returning from the city after disposing of some cattle.

Concealing her alarm, she followed the landlady, a coarse, brawny woman, to a room up stairs, whose door was without fastenings and which contained dition of affairs, but they have at last only a bed and stool. Retiring with her children, she was unable to sleep. An hour or so later she heard the traveler being escorted to an adjoining room and heard him complain that his door could not be secured, and the landlord assured him that he was as safe as he would be in his own house, an assertion the traveler evidently believed, as his heavy breathing soon told that he was asleep.

Near midnight the woman, who was still awake, heard stealthy steps pass her door and several persons enter the adjoining room. In a few minutes there was a heavy blow, followed by a low cry and then a short struggle. A little after the murderers came into her room, but seeing that she seemed to be asleep left her, and she heard them carry the dead man through the hall and down

In the morning they were very polite, inquiring how she rested, etc., stating that the drover had got up early and gone on. After breakfast she and the children started for the city, but were soon met by a man coming from there, who stopped her, inquiring who she was and where she was going, where she had staid the night before, etc. Believing him to be one of the band, she answered truthfully, but told him that the people at the tavern were very nice people and had treated her very well. He passed on, but she met another coming from the city who made the same inquiries, and still another; but she told the same story, and they, believing that she knew nothing, let her go.

On her arrival at Pittsburg she informed the authorities and the place was broken up, but whether any of them were brought to justice I am unable to say. - Sarah P. Farmer in Pittsburg Dispatch.

He Compelled Henry of Prussia to Apologize In Person.

CHICAGO, June 2 .-- Charles N. Post, vice president of the Lyon & Healy company, who has just returned from an extended tour of the Orient, met Admiral Dewey in Hongkong, March 25. Mr. Post says that Prince Henry, brother of Emperor William, with the German squadron at Hongkong, immediately after his arrival at Hongkong gave a banquet to the high officers of the other fleets, among whom was Rear Admiral Dewey. At the feast the prince proposed a toast to his own country, then Great Britain, then to all the other great powers, except the United States. Finally, just before the dinner was over, the royal host proposed a toast to this country.

When Rear Admiral Dewey saw that apparently his country was to be slighted he left the banquet without ceremony. The next day a representative of Prince Henry sent a roundabout apology. Dewey would not accept it. The latter then called upon Dewey and apologized.

While Mr. Post was at Hongkong, Prince Henry gave a ball, but Admiral Dewey, although invited, did not attend it.

WRECKED SPANISH BLOCKHOUSE.

Auxiliary Gunboats Uncas and Leyden Did the Work Near Matanzas.

KEY WEST, June 2. - The United States auxiliary gunboat Uncas reported that on Monday last when about a mile and a half west of Matanzas lighthouse she sighted a Spanish blockhouse on shore. Taking up a position about 600 yards off shore, the Uncas fired two shots at the house and two shells went clear through the building, which was wrecked.

During the firing the auxiliary gunboat Levden came up and fired a couple of shots. It is not known whether any Spaniards were killed, but they probably fled at the first shot. The blockhouse made no reply.

Mr. Hancock was then president of congress. After General Washington's letter was read a solemn silence ensued. This was broken by a member resolve itself into a committee of the whole in order that Mr. Hancock might give his opinion upon the important subject, as he was deeply interested from having all his estate in Boston. After he left the chair he addressed the chairman of the committee of the whole in the following words, "It is true, sir, nearly all the property I have in the world is in houses and other real estate in the town of Boston, but if the expulsion of the British army from it and the liberties of our country require their being burned to ashes issue the order for that purpose immediately."

Some Tough Old Nuts.

Not all centenarians have been paragons of all the virtues. Thomas Whittington, who lived to be 104, was a habitual drunkard, drinking only London gin, of which he consumed from a went to bed drunk at least two nights in the week until he was 100. At 92 he cut four new teeth. John de la Somet, 130 years old, was an inveterate smoker.

Several famous old people were extremely addicted to matrimony. Owen rock and Cote. Duffy, who lived to be 122, married his third wife at 116, "by whom he had a son and a daughter." Francis Hongo, a Venetian, was five times married and Belt. was the father of 49 children. At the age of 100 his white hair fell out and a new crop of the original color came in. At the age of 112 he had two new teeth.

Italians and Chinamen Join the Display.

A gentleman who has attended several of the flag raisings and has observed the flags in many quarters of Boston says that the Italian quarter is as abundantly draped as any other, and that a flag raising he saw there was the most enthusiastic of all, except the one he law in Chinatown, near the north end of Harrison avenue.

ETYMOLOGY OF "HURRAH."

Mr. Spratley Says That We Get It From Ancient Egypt.

W. J. Spratley, to use his plain English name, has favored us with a copy of a letter he has addressed to The Institute and Lecturers' Gazette on the etymology of the word "Hurrah!" which Mr. Spratley spells "Hoorah!" We have been vaguely cherishing the idea that it had a Russian origin, but Mr. Spratley takes us to ancient Egypt in his etymological search. He thinks 'there can be no doubt that the Egyptian soldiers went into battle to the inspiriting cheer of 'HooRa! HooRa! HooRa!' " and if the average questioning man asks why, he staggers him with this: "Because HooRa (in the tongue of the Thothmes and Rameses) means 'The king, the king !' Yea, more. As 'Ra' means not only king, but also God and man, the concentrated meaning of the cry would be, 'For God, king and country!' What more loyal, what more patriotic, what more devout?" What, indeed!

But lest we should haply still doubt, Mr. Spratley clinches the matter by citing, in corroboration, the fact that his name, in Egypitian roots, is Sa-pa-Rata-y, or Sa-pa-Hoo-Ra-ta-y, which means "Son of heaven, king of the two hemispheres," and if the authority of a gentleman of this descent is not good enough for the mere doubter, even Mr. Sa-pa, etc., may well despair of convincing him. More than this, if Mr. Spratley's Egyptian name means anything-and this is an open question-it also signifies "King of lower Egypt and king of upper Egypt," or "Emperor of the World." But what we chiefly other point that may well have baffled advise others to use them, as I am sure the philologist-namely, the genesis of the once familiar refrain "Ta-ra-raboom-de-ay." Is it possible that Miss Lottie Collins and the street urchin have been singing ancient Egyptian, as Mr. Jourdain spoke prose, without knowing it?—London Chronicle.

THE IMPROVED CHURCH

Plans Were Presented to the Congregation Last Night-Soliciting Committees are Now Raising the Needed Funds-All the News of Welisville.

After prayermeeting at the First M. E. church last night, T. H. Silver, chairman of the improvement committee, presented the plans for the proposed improvements. The changes will cost about $8,500.

It is proposed to add a front extending to the street, and to build a room 29.6 by 60, to the rear. They will two stories high. The increase in the auditorium will make a seating capacity of 600, the room being high enough to permit an elevation of the rear seats. New seats costing $700 will be put in, and an organ worth $2,000 will be purchased. All windows will be removed, and cathedral windows substituted. A steel ceiling is another contemplated improvement, and the alcove for the organ will be taken from the new room. A steam heater to cost $750, and a gymnasium and reading room, to be open every day, are contemplated.

The actual cost of the improvements, without the organ, are to be $6,500. The canvass for funds is now in progress. There is some objection to the gymnasium.

Speaker Reed's Autograph.

The Kennebec (Me.) Journal says that when autograph hunters ask Speaker Reed for his signature he writes it rather hastily, and it is simply T. B. Reed. If the pen does not mark plainly, the speaker does not always take pains to dip it anew, provided there is a scrawl and all the letters are visible.

Not so when the oblong forms of parchment are handed to him from the committee on enrolled bills, of which Representative Hager of Iowa is chairman. Mr. Hinds, the clerk to the speaker's desk, hands up the pile of parchment, and the speaker carefully looks over each. Taking them down one by one, he writes his name slowly and carefully. It does not appear as T. B. Reed, but as Thomas B. Reed.

The ink is dipped from a bottle that sits within a silver tray, which has come down from the time when Henry Clay was speaker of the house of representatives. Then the signature is carefully blotted, the precious parchment is carried to the senate and eventually finds its way to the state department, where it is stored among the archives.

CONQUERED TERRITORY.

The end of war is not yet and many a brave American may fill an unmarked grave before the emblem of wicked Spain is hauled down from the Philippines and Cuba, and that is the principal reason why this nation should compel the queen regent and her advisers to pay heavily for what they have brought upon themselves. The conquered territory will belong to Uncle Sam, and Uncle Sam's it should remain. It will be his right. He can care for it. He will improve its condition and its people. At this time it seems as though it was his duty to retain every inch of conquered territory, and lift it to the level of civilized America.

CHICKEN FIGHTING.

For some reason East Liverpool has gained an unenviable reputation during the past few months as a place where chicken fights can be pulled off without interference from the authorities. While this is not strictly true, for the police do not permit chicken fighting in the city limits, there is no denying that we receive the benefit of every main conducted on the banks of Little Beaver, the islands or the Virginia shore. The sport, if sport it can be called, is disgraceful and degrading, and when attended by the evils which formed so prominent a part of the proceedings on the island last Monday, sinks so low as to demand the condemnation of every man. It is against the law, and that alone should serve to make it unpopular, but it is also disgusting in the extreme, and should be stamped out at the earliest opportunity.

It remains for the authorities of Columbiana, Beaver and Hancock counties to take the matter in hand. Let each keep a watchful eye for chicken fighters. If they unite and provide each other with information it will not be long until every chicken fighter and fancier in this vicinity will fear to engage in the reprehensible practice. They

A well known business man who dearly loves flowers and spends a portion of his time every spring making flower beds, is on the war path. To a News REVIEW man he said:

"Every man who owns a dog should be compelled to keep the animal locked up or tie a chain to him every time he takes him away from home. I have a fence at my place, but the dogs jump it with as much ease as though it were not there, and then they break for the flowers. A few days ago we had a respectable looking front yard, now it has the appearance of being hit by a tornado. I know the man who owns a dog has rights, but he has no rights on my property. "REMEMBER THE MAINE."

SAGASTA knows his cause is lost, and in his crafty way is endeavoring to save something from the wreck. Let us note the degree of success that will attend his effort.

ONLY when the blockade is raised and they finally secure news from the outside world, will the people of Havana know what an accomplished liar General Blanco has grown to be.

If you have an American flag, hang it from some conspicuous portion of your home. If you have no flag, go and buy one. Any man can afford to show his colors, and the colors you all want to see just now are the glorious red, white friends of Mrs. Moere. and blue.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY, as the commander-in-chief of the armies and navies of the United States, has an enormous responsibility at the present time, but he is bearing it in a manner most satisfactory. If he does as well thronghout the war no one will complain.

CONQUERED TERRITORY.

The end of war is not yet and many a brave American may fill an unmarked grave before the emblem of wicked Spain is hauled down from the Philippines and Cuba, and that is the principal reason why this nation should compel the queen regent and her advisers to pay heavily for what they have brought upon themselves. The conquered territory will belong to Uncle Sam, and Uncle Sam's it should remain. It will be his right. He can care for it. He will improve its condition and its people. At this time it seems as though it was his duty to retain every inch of conquered territory, and lift it to the level of civilized America.

CHICKEN FIGHTING.

For some reason East Liverpool has gained an unenviable reputation during the past few months as a place where chicken fights can be pulled off without interference from the authorities. While this is not strictly true, for the police do not permit chicken fighting in the city limits, there is no denying that we receive the benefit of every main conducted on the banks of Little Beaver, the islands or the Virginia shore. Sports from all over the country take the name of the nearest important town, and this place derives the benefit from every battle.

The sport, if sport it can be called, is disgraceful and degrading, and when attended by the evils which formed so prominent a part of the proceedings on the island last Monday, sinks so low as to demand the condemnation of every man. It is against the law, and that alone should serve to make it unpopular, but it is also disgusting in the extreme, and should be stamped out at the earliest opportunity.

It remains for the authorities of Columbiana, Beaver and Hancock counties to take the matter in hand. Let each keep a watchful eye for chicken fighters. If they unite and provide each other with information it will not be long until every chicken fighter and fancier in this vicinity will fear to engage in the reprehensible practice. They will not call their mends from a disc tance to witness the battles, and it will beginning next Saturday at

DOGS AND FLOWERS.

One Resident Thinks He Will Buy a Gun.

A well known business man who dearly loves flowers and spends a portion of his time every spring making flower beds, is on the war path. To a News REVIEW man he said:

"Every man who owns a dog should be compelled to keep the animal locked up or tie a chain to him every time he takes him away from home. I have a fence at my place, but the dogs jump it with as much ease as though it were not there, and then they break for the flowers. A few days ago we had a respectable looking front yard, now it has the appearance of being hit by a tornado. I know the man who owns a dog has rights, but he has no rights on my property. I guess I'll buy a shot gun and spend my summer evenings practicing on dogs."

THAT EIGHT HOUR LAW

Is Again Discussed by Trades Council.

A LETTER TO HON. M. A. HANNA

Will Be Sent at Once by Secretary Brownfield-Labor Day Committee Continued Under Instructions-The Library Mat-

Trades council held an important meeting last night, the attendance being larger than usual. Among the matters of importance were the eight hour law, Labor Day and the library.

The credentials of Herbert Johnson, representing the kilnmen, were received as were those of Mike Fisher for the street railway men.

Communication from the Federation of Labor regarding the eight hour day was read. It urged the council to take action at once since the bill had passed the house of representatives and was now in the senate. Secretary Brownfield was instructed to write to Hon. M. A. Hanna and ask him to support the bill. The measure provides for an eight hour day on all government work.

Jason H. Brookes calling the attention of the council to the fact that a law had been passed by the last general assembly which said that school boards should make a levy for the support of public this unchangeable city are the pawnlibraries. Mr. Brookes was given a vote of thanks by the council.

A communication from the Amalgamated Woodworkers informed the council that some firms were placing the union label on furniture they manufactured. It was referred to the label committee who will endeavor to have union men buy union made furniture.

The Labor Day committee made a report which was listed by the secretary as coming under the head of progress, and were continued. They were instructed to ask for a continuance of the option on Columbian park.

MAKING PREPARATIONS

For the Grand Army Encampment at Mt,

Local members of the Grand Army are much interested in the Ohio encampment of the Grand Army which will this year be held in Mt. Vernon. A number of persons from this city will attend.

Elaborate preparations are being made to entertain the thousands of people who will attend. A pleasure resort costing a quarter of a million of dollars will furnish amusement and an outing. Committees of entertainment have been appointed.

OPPOSITION

Is Developing to the Improvement of Pennsylvania Avenue.

There will probably be some opposition to council improving Pennsylvania avenue to East End, as many of the East End people are of the opinion that the river road is the one that should be improved.

They say that should Pennsylvania avenue be graded, in a few years it will be as bad as the Wellsville road, and the city will have no end of trouble in keeping it in good condition.

LIFE IN CANTON.

he People and the Customs of a Famous Chinese City.

There are Europeans at Canton, but they live in a settlement outside the native city. Their influence, like their place of abode, is merely upon the outermost edge of the community. Our ideals of civilization have not wuched the people. They are today as they have been for centuries past. They sneer at our institutions and consider themselves in every way superior to the white "barbarian." Casual visitors to the crowded city visit the various points of interest by means of sedan chairs. They are accompanied by a native guide, who conscientiously goes through a long catalogue of things, wonderful or horrible, in English, which is fluently spoken but imperfectly understood by those to whom it is addressed. The guide is very attentive to those in his care, very polite in his manners, and often possessed of a fair amount of hu-

The streets of the city are of a pattern of immemorial antiquity. None is more than ten feet wide. The houses lean inward from the base and almost meet overhead, shutting out all but the narrowest strip of daylight. Signboards are hung perpendicularly outside every house. They are elaborately carved and gayly decorated with abundance of gold leaf and scarlet or black lacquer. The mystic looking symbols inform the curious that one particular shop is "Prosper-A communication was received from ed by Heaven," another has "Never Ending Good Luck," while yet another is "The Market of Golden Profits"—the said profits, be it known, going into the pocket of the dealer.

Among the most interesting sights of shops. They are often great, square, solid granite structures, which look more like old border keeps than the residences of accommodating "uncles." The pawnshop fulfills a double purpose. It advances money at an interest varying from 20 to 36 per cent, and it stores in safety within its massive walls those articles of finery and adornment which are only required at special times and seasons. On the flat roofs of these citadels are piles of stones and jars of vitriol, ready to repel any attack that may be made by thieves, whose methods of plunder are less refined than those of the pawnbrokers.

SHEATHING A SHIP.

Composition Metal Now Largely Used. Work Quickly and Handsomely Done.

Yachts built of wood are sheathed with copper, and so are many tugboats. Merchant ships are sometimes sheathed with copper, but nowadays the material most commonly used is a composition metal which in appearance resembles brass. It does not wear so long as copper, but it costs less. The composition metal comes in sheets about 3 feet by 1 foot 4 inches. They are fastened on the ship with nails of the same material. Sometimes the sheathing is nailed directly on to the hull of the ship. Sometimes it is nailed over another sheathing of felt, which helps to preserve the calking in the seams.

When the ship has been placed in a drydock or raised out of water on a floating dock, the old metal is stripped off, and if she is to have a felt sheathing the bottom of the ship is first painted with a coat of pitch, and the sheets of felt are laid upon that, and then the sheets of metal are nailed on over them. The work is done very rapidly and at the same time with great nicety. Every nail head is sunk so that it is flush with the plate. If the hand were passed over the sheathing anywhere, it would be found smooth. If the nail heads were permitted to project, they would of course interfere with the speed of the Seventy-five men can sheathe an 1,800 ton ship in two days. The cost of sheathing such a ship with composition metal over felt, including material, dock charges, labor and everything, would be about $4,000, or a little less, and such a sheathing would last about two long voyages.—New York Sun.

Her Face on the Plates.

A new industry, first put forward under the patronage of Mrs. John Jacob young woman, one of the most prominent and beautiful of New York's fashionable matrons, has nad ner own lace painted with most exquisite art on six very choice Sevres plates that are only used for her smallest and most select luncheon parties. The plates show Mrs. Astor in evening dress, tailor dress, reception gown, skating furs, in a delicate summer muslin and in her bridal gown.

Dangerous Odors.

Some smells are dangerous. A single miff of highly concentrated prussic acid will kill a man as quickly as a shot through the heart. The odor of a bad egg is due to the presence of sulphureted hydrogen, and the objectionable perfumes of sewers and bone factories are attributable chiefly to the same gas. Chemical laboratories are famous for bad smells. Berzelius, who discovered the element called "selenium," once tried the experiment of permitting a bubble of pure hydrogen selenide gas to enter his nostril. For days afterward he was not able to smell strong ammonia, the olfactory nerves being temporarily paralyzed. Selenium gas has the odor of putrid horse radish. Tellurium is even worse. There is a story of a physician whose patient, a lady, refused to take an absolutely necessary rest because she was so fond of being always on the go in society. He gave her a pill containing a small quantity of tellurium, and her breath was affected by it to such an extent that she was not able to appear in public for a month. She never guessed what the trouble was. The volatized essential oil of roses is supposed to cause "rose cold." This peculiar complaint is so far nervous in its character that paper roses sometimes excite it. -Boston Transcript.

John Milton's Portrait.

John Milton's harmonicall and ingeniose soul did lodge in a beautifull and well proportioned body. He was a spare man. He had abroun (auburn) hayre. His complexion exceeding faire -he was so faire that they called him "the lady of Christ's College." Ovall face. His eie adarke gray. He had a delicate tuneable voice, and had good skill. His father instructed him. He had an organ in his howse; he played on that most. Of a very cheerful humour.-He would be chearful even in his gowtefitts, and sing. He was very healthy and free from all diseases: seldome tooke any physique, (only sometimes he tooke manna:) only toward his latter end he was visited with the gowte, spring and fall. He had a very good memorie, but I beleeve that his excellent method of thinking and disposing did much to helpe his memorie. He pronounced the letter R (littera canina) very hard-a certaine sine of a satyricall witt. Temperate man, rarely drank between meales. Extreme pleasant in his conversation, and at dinner, supper, etc., but satyricall.-Aubrey's "Brief Lives."

Told on Kentucky Legislators.

A member of the late legislature from southern Kentucky was invited one evening to participate in a Welsh rabbit lunch at the Capitol hotel. Diking himself out, he awaited the hour. With that prince of good fellows, Tutt Burman, he walked into the dining room, where coffee and rabbits were served standing. After partaking of one or two and a cup of coffee, he remarked to Tutt: "This is no rabbit. It's nothing but fried cheese and light bread." It is useless to say that member never attended any more lunches.

On another occasion the assembly balls or germans, which were given every Tuesday night, attracted the attention of a mountain member, and he asked, "Whar are all them people goin that are goin up stairs?" Some one remarked up to the german. "The you say. Do they let the Dutch dance here?"-Owenton (Ky.) News.

A Glorious Sight.

A very amusing mistake was that discovered by a proofreader in a work written by Dean Stanley. The latter wrote, to use a colloquialism familiar in printing establishments, the "vilest hand" that ever puzzled the compositor. In one chapter the dean was describing a journey to Jerusalem, the frequent recurrence of the name of the Holy City causing him to use the contraction "Jers." Narrating the approach of his party to Jerusalem, Dean Stanley described their ascent up the hills overlooking the city. He pictured in glowing language and striking phrases the effect of the setting sun as it gilded the hilltops in a golden haze, concluding, as the compositor put it, in these words, "And as we slowly turned our faces to the east our eyes met with the glorious sight of Jones."

Resourceful Schoolma'am.

An editor in Nebraska visited the schoolma'am and found her "hot stuff." Here's what he swears to:

"She is the pride of the town, the star of invention and a jewel of brilliancy. She drew a picture of an iceberg on the blackboard. It was so natural that the thermometer froze up solid. With rare presence of mind she seized a crayon and drew a fireplace on the opposite wall. The prompt action saved the school, but nearly all the pupils caught a severe cold from the sudden changes."—Crookston (Neb.) Times.

Seventy-five men can sheathe an 1,800 ton ship in two days. The cost of sheathing such a ship with composition metal over felt, including material, dock charges, labor and everything, would be about $4,000, or a little less, and such a sheathing would last about two long voyages.—New York Sun.

Her Face on the Plates.

A new industry, first put forward under the patronage of Mrs. John Jacob young woman, one of the most prominent and beautiful of New York's fashionable matrons, has nad ner own lace painted with most exquisite art on six very choice Sevres plates that are only used for her smallest and most select luncheon parties. The plates show Mrs. Astor in evening dress, tailor dress, reception gown, skating furs, in a delicate summer muslin and in her bridal gown.

Dangerous Odors.

Some smells are dangerous. A single miff of highly concentrated prussic acid will kill a man as quickly as a shot through the heart. The odor of a bad egg is due to the presence of sulphureted hydrogen, and the objectionable perfumes of sewers and bone factories are attributable chiefly to the san e gas. Chemical laboratories are famous for bad smells. Berzelius, who discovered the element called "selenium," once tried the experiment of permitting a bubble of pure hydrogen selenide gas to enter his nostril. For days afterward he was not able to smell strong ammonia, the olfactory nerves being temporarily paralyzed. Selenium gas has the odor of putrid horse radish. Tellurium is even worse. There is a story of a physician whose patient, a lady, refused to take an absolutely necessary rest because she was so fond of being always on the go in society. He gave her a pill containing a small quantity of tellurium, and her breath was affected by it to such an extent that she was not able to appear in public for a month. She never guessed what the trouble was. The volatized essential oil of roses is supposed to cause "rose cold." This peculiar complaint is so far nervous in its character that paper roses sometimes excite it. -Boston Transcript.

John Milton's Portrait.

John Milton's harmonicall and ingeniose soul did lodge in a beautifull and well proportioned body. He was a spare man. He had abroun (auburn) hayre. His complexion exceeding faire -he was so faire that they called him "the lady of Christ's College." Ovall face. His eie adarke gray. He had a delicate tuneable voice, and had good skill. His father instructed him. He had an organ in his howse; he played on that most. Of a very cheerful humour.-He would be chearful even in his gowtefitts, and sing. He was very healthy and free from all diseases: seldome tooke any physique, (only sometimes he tooke manna:) only toward his latter end he was visited with the gowte, spring and fall. He had a very good memorie, but I beleeve that his excellent method of thinking and disposing did much to helpe his memorie. He pronounced the letter R (littera canina) very hard-a certaine sine of a satyricall witt. Temperate man, rarely drank between meales. Extreme pleasant in his conversation, and at dinner, supper, etc., but satyricall.—Aubrey's "Brief Lives."

Told on Kentucky Legislators.

A member of the late legislature from southern Kentucky was invited one evening to participate in a Welsh rabbit lunch at the Capitol hotel. Diking himself out, he awaited the hour. With that prince of good fellows, Tutt Burman, he walked into the dining room, where coffee and rabbits were served standing. After partaking of one or two and a cup of coffee, he remarked to Tutt: "This is no rabbit. It's nothing but fried cheese and light bread." It is useless to say that member never attended any more lunches.

On another occasion the assembly balls or germans, which were given every Tuesday night, attracted the attention of a mountain member, and he asked, "Whar are all them people goin that are goin up stairs?" Some one remarked up to the german. "The you say. Do they let the Dutch dance here?"-Owenton (Ky.) News.

A Glorious Sight.

A very amusing mistake was that discovered by a proofreader in a work written by Dean Stanley. The latter provided. The fishing, bathing and wrote, to use a colloquialism familiar boating are fine, the large fleet of boats in printing establishments, the "vilest hand" that ever puzzled the compositor. In one chapter the dean was describing a journey to Jerusalem, the frequent recurrence of the name of the Holy City causing him to use the contraction "Jers." Narrating the approach obtained during May, June, July and of his party to Jerusalem, Dean Stanley described their ascent up the hills overlooking the city. He pictured in glowing language and striking phrases the effect of the setting sun as it gilded the hilltops in a golden haze, concluding, as the compositor put it, in these words, "And as we slowly turned our faces to the east our eyes met with the glorious sight of Jones."

Resourceful Schoolma'am.

An editor in Nebraska visited the schoolma'am and found her "hot stuff." Here's what he swears to:

star of invention and a jewel of brilliancy. She drew a picture of an iceberg | Pittsburg, Pa. on the blackboard. It was so natural that the thermometer froze up solid. With rare presence of mind she seized a crayon and drew a fireplace on the opposite wall. The prompt action saved the school, but nearly all the pupils caught a severe cold from the sudden changes."—Crookston (Neb.) Times.

VISITED THE HOME.

The Columbiana Committee Found All Well.

The Columbiana county visiting committee yesterday visited the children's home at Fairmount, and found everything in the best of condition. All the children are well, and Mr. and Mrs Southworth are caring for them in the best possible manner.

When the party arrived at Alliance on the return trip some of the ladies decided they would attend the Woman's Christian Temperance union meeting being held at Mount Union. They went out on the street car, and after spending the time pleasantly started for the station. Then they learned that the cars had been tied up by an injunction, and were dismayed until a stranger offered to take them to town in a wagon. They gladly accepted the offer, and reached the station

The members of the committee who made the trip were Mrs. Mercer, of Salem: Mrs. Aten, Wellsville; Doctor Moore, Lisbon; Mrs. Palmer, Liverpool. Mrs. Palmer was accompanied by her guest, Miss Purvis, of Baltimore.

MONEY AND MUSIC.

Why We Have More Women Vocalists Than Men.

In preparing a list of American concert singers it was curious to note that the number of tenors just exactly equaled the combined number of baritones and basses. It is probably true that there are just about two cultivated tenors to each baritone or bass. There are similarly about twice as many sopranos as there are mezzo sopranos or contraltos, and there are probably two trained sopranos to every tenor.

The reasons for these ratios are probably these: A higher voice, being the more unusual, attracts to its owner the more attention. The natural tenor and soprano are accordingly encouraged to cultivate what may, after all, be only a mediocre ability. The mezzo soprano or baritone, however, is thought of as only an ordinary mortal, and a voice of the utmost possibilities may be left to waste its fragrance in the dark, unfathomed caves of its owner's thorax.

A village church is the epitome of the world in this respect. The women "sing alto" or keep quiet, or strain and squeal at the top notes; the men drone out a bagpipish bass. The good voices are lost in the lugubrious average, but if there is a girl who takes the high notes flutily or a boy who can interpolate the tenor part without danger of scarlet fever these voices sing out above the grounding chorus. Every one pricks ear to listen, and the word is passed that Sukey Smith or Jakey Jones "has a voice." It may be that that voice ought to be cultivated, it may be that it ought to be confiscated, but to the teacher it must go. The steps from this first discovery to a career of public weal or

So much for the disproportion of high and low professional singing. The fact that more women than men study song is doubtless to be accounted for by the superstition that flourishes in many districts that selling dry goods or keeping books is a more manly career than singing. This public creed keeps many a man from developing the gold mine in his larynx. Besides, there is, especially in America, a sentiment that a man should not depend on his father after he has reached his majority.

It is a wholesome sentiment on some accounts, a pernicious sentiment on others, but many a father will set his son up in business with a sum of money which if devoted to paying his artistic tuition a few years on in his twenties might give him a capital of unlimited possibilities. —Godey's Magazine.

FOOLED THE PREMIER.

Experiment Which Made Matters Worse Than They Had Been.

A story, the truth of which is vouched for in high quarters, is told concernthe "manners" of the political memconsisted solely of the strangers, the members of the parliament and the prime minister. During the course of his host and informed him of his loss, adding that he especially prized the niggurs," shouting, "The place is watch, as it was a present to him from mine!" the king of the country whose guest he had the honor to be at that moment.

The prime minister saw at once that there was only one thing to be done, and, asking for silence, explained the situation to the company. He said that no doubt some one had yielded to the temptation of the moment, but that fort upon the opposite side, leaving 20 when they learned that the missing article was the gift of their king he was sure their loyalty, if nothing else, would prompt them to restore it to its owner. In order that the culprit's honor might be preserved and the country saved from ment. "Well," said Strahan, "if I'm lowered for five minutes and the guests would defile past the writing table, which would give an opportunity for the delinquent to place the watch there. Upon this the room was darkened for the stipulated time. On the lights being turned up it was found that the watch had not been placed on the writing table, but that a valuable silver inkstand, also a gift of the king to his prime minister, was missing as well.-London Telegraph.

Economics.

Frantz Poesing could not understand why he should not be allowed to leave the barge office. His card bore the inscription, "Not money enough," but he thought he had something as good as money besides the cash he had shown. He was a healthy young German, his accent fresh from Unter den Linden, his suit and his boots spick and span, his manner full of dignity and method.

"They say I have not money enough," he argued, "but I have a brand new suit in my trunk, for which I paid 64 marks, and I have not worn it more than four or five times. You wish to see it? Well, anyhow, it is worth at least 55 marks now. I assure you it is as good as new. Then I have a lot of new books, for which I paid 50 marks. They are all about business, and one is entitled 'The Merchant on the Height of His Success, and How to Follow Him.' I bought all these books before leaving because I had made up my mind to go into business in this counare for it. So.

AN ELEPHANT'S CUNNING.

He Knew How to Turn the Tables Upon His Tormentor.

This is a good story of an elephant's intelligence. The animal in question was a mere baby when he was sent by an Indian prince to England as a present for Queen Victoria.

He was shipped as a deck passenger by one of the Indian mail steamers from Bombay, and as he had but attained the height of a well grown calf and was always most docile and tractable he was permitted to have the run of the decks for an hour or two every morning when the state of the weather permitted. By the sailors he was dubbed the "bos'n's mate," owing to the penchant he had for carefully picking up every loose coil of rope that he could find and then throwing it over the side, being, as Jack said, "as bad as a naval lieutenant for keeping the decks tidy."

Among other acquaintances that he formed was that of the ship's baker, whose address he soon discovered to be the place of origin of all the sweet dainties with which he was petted. Here he took to making a regular morning call for something sweet for tiffin and was generally regaled with a stale tart or piece of cake, but upon calling one morning and extending his trunk, as usual, he found that his visit was unwelcome, as something had occurred to irritate the baker, and instead of the cake he received a blow on his trunk with the rolling pin.

The blow was not severe, but the "bos'n" turned tail and went trumpeting up the deck, where he took a post that would enable him to watch for his assailant. Before long he saw the baker leave his "shop," and mischief being his object rather than malice he promptly marched down, and with several vigorous sweeps of his trunk he swept all the shelves in the bakery clear, until loaves, tarts, cakes, patty pans and cake tins lay in confusion on the deck. This achieved, he bolted like any schoolboy and was locked up in disgrace, but upon the circumstances being known the popular verdict was in his favor, and he was allowed his liberty as before.

"Bos'n" marched down instanter to the baker, and never failed from that day to exact tribute, which was regularly paid, and from that time he and his opponent became fast friends.—Golden Penny.

A Disgusted Hero.

The story of Sergeant Walker, who was kept prisoner for six weeks by the Afridis and was court martialed for being "absent without leave," reminds me of an Indian tale of 1757, when a L. F. Horsepower.

Watt, the great improver of the steam engine, introduced into the vocabulary of machinists the term horsepower. When he first began the manufacture of steam engines, he experienced much difficulty in ascertaining from his distant customers what sized engine they required, and they were not less puzzled how to communicate to him the information. He was frequently guided, however, by their mentioning the number of horses which the engine ordered was designed to replace. Acting upon this hint, he ascertained by experiment that the very strongest of the London brewers' horses (animals of wonderful size and strength) could exert a force equivalent to raising 33,000 pounds one foot in a minute. This force he called one horsepower, and adopted it as the standard in regulating the size of steam engines. Now, not one horse in 100 is able to exert that degree of strength. A steam engine of ten horsepower can, in reality, do the work of about 20 horses. -New York Ledger.

VISITED THE HOME.

The Columbiana Committee Found All

The Columbiana county visiting committee yesterday visited the children's home at Fairmount, and found everything in the best of condition. All the children are well, and Mr. and Mrs Southworth are caring for them in the best possible manner.

When the party arrived at Alliance on the return trip some of the ladies decided they would attend the Woman's Christian Temperance union meeting being held at Mount Union. They went out on the street car, and after spending the time pleasantly started for the station. Then they learned that the cars had been tied up by an injunction, and were dismayed until a stranger offered to take them to town in a wagon. They gladly accepted the offer, and reached the station

The members of the committee who made the trip were Mrs. Mercer, of Salem; Mrs. Aten, Wellsville; Doctor Moore, Lisbon: Mrs. Palmer, Liverpool. Mrs. Palmer was accompanied by her guest, Miss Purvis, of Baltimore.

LAST OF THE SEASON.

Missionary Workers Have a Very Pleasant Time.

The Young Ladies' Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church held their last meeting of the season yesterday afternoon. After the literary exercises the officers served lunch in the lecture room. The sandwiches were wrapped in red, white and blue tissue

The Home Missionary society of the First M. E. church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon from two to five o'clock at the home of Mrs. Geo. P. Ikirt. An enjoyable time is anticipated.

A CRACK RIDER.

A Wellsville Man Whose Friends Think He Is a Winner.

The Wellsville people think they have a crack rider in Henry Arment, and his backer is willing to match him against any wheelmen in this city for a race any distance from five to 50 miles. He is handled by James Stevenson, and is one of the best riders in this section of the state.

Societies at Service.

The order of Red Men and Daughters of Pocohontas will attend the service at the First M. P. church Sunday, June 12.

Next Sunday Reverend Swift will speak to the children and his subject will be "And a little child shall lead them." Children's day will be observed one week from next Sunday evening.

Not as Good as April.

The clerks of the freight office are now engaged making out the reports for the month of May.

Cashier Austin is superintending the work and will be a busy man for several days. The reports when finished will show a goodly amount of business handled, but it will not be as much as that of April.

The advertisement of Erlanger's this week should be carefully read by everybody interested in the purchase of clothMONEY AND MUSIC.

Why We Have More Women Vocalists Than Men.

In preparing a list of American concert singers it was curious to note that the number of tenors just exactly equaled the combined number of baritones and basses. It is probably true that there are just about two cultivated tenors to each baritone or bass. There are similarly about twice as many sopranos as there are mezzo sopranos or contraltos, and there are probably two trained sopranos to every tenor.

The reasons for these ratios are probably these: A higher voice, being the more unusual, attracts to its owner the more attention. The natural tenor and soprano are accordingly encouraged to cultivate what may, after all, be only a mediocre ability. The mezzo soprano or baritone, however, is thought of as only an ordinary mortal, and a voice of the utmost possibilities may be left to waste its fragrance in the dark, unfathomed caves of its owner's thorax.

A village church is the epitome of the world in this respect. The women 'sing alto" or keep quiet, or strain and squeal at the top notes; the men drone out a bagpipish bass. The good voices are lost in the lugubrious average, but if there is a girl who takes the high notes flutily or a boy who can interpolate the tenor part without danger of scarlet fever these voices sing out above the grounding chorus. Every one pricks ear to listen, and the word is passed that Sukey Smith or Jakey Jones "has a voice." It may be that that voice ought to be cultivated, it may be that it ought to be confiscated, but to the teacher it must go. The steps from this first discovery to a career of public weal or woe are easy.

So much for the disproportion of high and low professional singing. The fact that more women than men study song is doubtless to be accounted for by the superstition that flourishes in many districts that selling dry goods or keeping books is a more manly career than singing. This public creed keeps many a man from developing the gold mine in his larynx. Besides, there is, especially in America, a sentiment that a man should not depend on his father after he has reached his majority.

It is a wholesome sentiment on some accounts, a pernicious sentiment on others, but many a father will set his son up in business with a sum of money which if devoted to paying his artistic tuition a few years on in his twenties might give him a capital of unlimited possibilities. - Godey's Magazine.

FOOLED THE PREMIER.

Ap Experiment Which Made Matters Worse Than They Had Been.

A story, the truth of which is vouched for in high quarters, is told concerning the "manners" of the political members of a small country renowned for its captured almost single handed one of ancient courage. The prime minister gave a reception to meet some distin- which was strongly situated, was inguished Englishmen. The assemblage consisted solely of the strangers, the during the time of midday repose, wanmembers of the parliament and the prime minister. During the course of the evening one of the more distinguished of the English guests discovered that made by the cannon of the ships, and his watch had been taken. He went to on reaching the platform he flourished his host and informed him of his loss, adding that he especially prized the watch, as it was a present to him from the king of the country whose guest he had the honor to be at that moment.

The prime minister saw at once that there was only one thing to be done, and, asking for silence, explained the situation to the company. He said that no doubt some one had yielded to the temptation of the moment, but that when they learned that the missing article was the gift of their king he was sure their loyalty, if nothing else, would prompt them to restore it to its owner. In order that the culprit's honor might be preserved and the country saved from scandal, he said, the lights would be lowered for five minutes and the guests would defile past the writing table, which would give an opportunity for the delinquent to place the watch there.

Upon this the room was darkened for the stipulated time. On the lights being turned up it was found that the watch had not been placed on the writing table, but that a valuable silver inkstand, also a gift of the king to his prime minister, was missing as well.-London Telegraph.

Economics.

Frantz Poesing could not understand why he should not be allowed to leave the barge office. His card bore the inscription, "Not money enough," but he thought he had something as good as money besides the cash he had shown. He was a healthy young German, his accent fresh from Unter den Linden, his suit and his boots spick and span, his manner full of dignity and method.

"They say I have not money enough," he argued, "but I have a brand new suit in my trunk, for which I paid 64 marks, and I have not worn it more than four or five times. You wish to see it? Well, anyhow, it is worth at least 55 marks now. I assure you it is as good as new. Then I have a lot of new books, for which I paid 50 marks. They are all about business, and one is entitled 'The Merchant on the Height of His Success, and How to Follow Him.' I bought all these books before leaving because I had made up my mind to go into business in this coun-

AN ELEPHANT'S CUNNING.

He Knew How to Turn the Tables Upon His Tormentor.

This is a good story of an elephant's intelligence. The animal in question was a mere baby when he was sent by an Indian prince to England as a present for Queen Victoria.

He was shipped as a deck passenger by one of the Indian mail steamers from Bombay, and as he had but attained the height of a well grown calf and was always most docile and tractable he was permitted to have the run of the decks for an hour or two every morning when the state of the weather permitted. By the sailors he was dubbed the "bos'n's mate," owing to the penchant he had for carefully picking up every loose coil of rope that he could find and then throwing it over the side, being, as Jack said, "as bad as a naval lieutenant for keeping the decks tidy."

Among other acquaintances that he formed was that of the ship's baker, whose address he soon discovered to be the place of origin of all the sweet dainties with which he was petted. Here he took to making a regular morning call for something sweet for tiffin and was generally regaled with a stale tart or piece of cake, but upon calling one morning and extending his trunk, as usual, he found that his visit was unwelcome, as something had occurred to irritate the baker, and instead of the cake he received a blow on his trunk with the rolling pin.

The blow was not severe, but the 'bos'n" turned tail and went trumpeting up the deck, where he took a post that would enable him to watch for his assailant. Before long he saw the baker leave his "shop," and mischief being his object rather than malice he promptly marched down, and with several vigorous sweeps of his trunk he swept all the shelves in the bakery clear, until loaves, tarts, cakes, patty pans and cake tins lay in confusion on the deck. This achieved, he bolted like any schoolboy and was locked up in disgrace, but upon the circumstances being known the popular verdict was in his favor, and he as allowed his liberty as before.

"Bos'n" marched down instanter to the baker, and never failed from that day to exact tribute, which was regularly paid, and from that time he and his opponent became fast friends.—Golden Penny.

A Disgusted Hero.

The story of Sergeant Walker, who was kept prisoner for six weeks by the Afridis and was court martialed for being "absent without leave," reminds me of an Indian tale of 1757, when a man-o'-war's man, Strahan by name, the forts on the Hoogly. The fort, vested by the admiral, and Strahan, dered off "on his own" in its direction. Gaining the walls without discovery, he took it into his head to scale a breach his cutlass and fired his pistol at "the niggurs," shouting, "The place is mine!" The native soldiers attacked him, and he held his own with indomitable pluck till re-enforced by one or two other tars who had straggled out of camp and heard his huzzas. The enemy, unprepared from this ill timed attack and fearing further invaders, fled from the fort upon the opposite side, leaving 20 cannon and a large store of ammunition. Much to Strahan's surprise, he was lectured by the admiral for his breach of discipline, and he was dismissed with hints of future punishment. "Well," said Strahan, "if I'm flogged for this here action, I'm d--d if I ever takes another fort as long as I lives!"-London Sketch.

Horsepower.

Watt, the great improver of the steam engine, introduced into the vocabulary of machinists the term horsepower. When he first began the manufacture of steam engines, he experienced much difficulty in ascertaining from his distant customers what sized engine they required, and they were not less puzzled how to communicate to him the information. He was frequently guided, however, by their mentioning the number of horses which the engine ordered was designed to replace. Acting upon that the very strongest of the London brewers' horses (animals of wonderful size and strength) could exert a force equivalent to raising 83,000 pounds one foot in a minute. This force he called one horsepower, and adopted it as the standard in regulating the size of steam engines. Now, not one horse in 100 is able to exert that degree of strength. A steam engine of ten horsepower can, in reality, do the work of about 20 horses. -New York Ledger.
